Speakers Explain Party Platforms

Representatives of All but Union Party Address Town Hall Gathering

Five speakers representing as many different political alignments addressed a crowd of about 200 Tuesday evening at the non-partisan rally held by the League of Women Voters in the town hall. Thomas C. O'Brien, Union Party vice-presidential candidate and stumbling-block to Governor Curley in his senatorial campaign, was unable to come as had been scheduled since he was in conference with Father Coughlin in Boston. Col. Robert Goodwin, scheduled as the Republican speaker, was ill, and his place was taken by F. G. R. Gordon of Haverhill. Mrs. Alan R. Blackmer presided.

Alfred Baker Lewis, socialist candidate for governor, was the opening speaker. He based his talk on the theme that capitalism can't work, his reasons being three: (1) those who work in industry are treated by the owners not as human beings but as items of expense and production, which must be kept down; (2) every effort is made to speed up production, and when human beings become worn out, they are scrapped; (3) new labor-displacing machinery cuts down number of men employed. He said that figures show that there were 38 percent more physical goods in 1929 than in 1919, produced by three percent fewer people, the average payroll being only nine percent more.

Competition, he declared, forces good employers to do what worst do. Wage-cuts, he asserted, kill buying power, as does labor-displacing machinery. America got out of its previous depressions by the use of the free land in the west, a safety valve for unemployment, but this is all gone.

President Roosevelt has been advising the farmers to go to the cities, and he's been advising the city people to go back to the farms, the speaker declared in one of his few references to the President.

The solution, to Mr. Lewis' mind, was public ownership of any property which gives one individual power over another. This property is public in nature, he said, and it should be publicly owned.

TELLS REPUBLICAN STAND

Mr. Gordon, the Republican speaker, said that there wasn't a real Democrat present, because there isn't any Democratic party—it's a New Deal party. The present administration is the most undemocratic party ever to come in under that name, he said. He charged the administration with squandering the people's money, and spoke scathingly of the hog control plans. He told of the loafing of the men on W.P.A. jobs, only one out of six of whom do anything but lean on their shovels. The Democrats were for States,

The New England Conference of the American Association of Museums is being held here and at Salem today and tomorrow, the headquarters being at the Addison Gallery. Among the sponsors are the Addison Gallery, the archaeology department, the John-Esther Gallery at Abbot academy, the Andover Historical society and the North Andover Historical society.

The History and Natural science sections are meeting at Salem this afternoon, and at 7:45 tonight there will be a dinner at Phillips Inn with an address by George H. Edgell, director of the museum of Fine Arts, Boston. The art section is meeting at 2:30 today at the Peabody house, the subject being "Loan Exhibitions." Bartlett H. Hayes, Jr., is presiding. Charles H. Sawyer will take part in the discussions. Tea will be served at the Inn at 5:15, and at 7:45 the art section will join the Salem group at dinner.

Tomorrow morning a general meeting will be held at Peabody house at 10, with Mr. Sawyer presiding and Dr. Fuess delivering the address of welcome. After the morning discussion there will be luncheon at 1:15 and at 2:30 there will be special discussion groups at the Gallery. At 3:30 there will be visits to the Andover Historical society and the John-Esther Gallery.

Andover people on the committee in charge include Mr. Sawyer, Mr. Hayes, Prof. Warren K. Moorehead, Douglas S. Byers, Miss Margaret Snow, Miss Caroline Underhill, Miss Alice Chase and Miss Helen Spaulding of the gallery staff are also on the committee.

Cars to Detour off River Road

Traffic on River road will shortly be detoured over some of the side-roads while construction is taking place on the stretch of the road between Boutwell road and Fiske street. The detour will take traffic down Fiske street, Bailey road, Pleasant street, and Boutwell road.

Stone and tar have been laid as far as George M. Squire's, and the bottom course has been laid for 600 to 700 feet more.

School Board to Appoint Teacher

The school board will meet in special session on Tuesday evening to act on several matters, the most important being the election of a new teacher for the junior high to relieve congestion in the commercial department.

It is possible also that another new janitor will be appointed, and further plans may be made about the rental of the new school buildings.

Both Major Parties to Hold Rallies Here

Assistant District Attorney to Speak

Randall T. Cox, assistant district attorney of Essex county, will speak on "Grand Jury" at the meeting of the Service club Thursday evening. Dinner will be served as usual at the Square and Compass club at 6:15.

In accordance with the votes taken at the last meetings, the club secretary has written to the selectmen urging the beautifying of the plot in front of the town hall and also to Registrar Frank Goodwin urging that something be done about the glare from headlights.

In the letter to the selectmen it was stated that a local landscape gardener has offered to donate his services and also provide some of the shrubs, and other private citizens have offered to donate shrubs.

The letter to Mr. Goodwin mentioned that Route 28 between Stoneham and Methuen was known as the second most dangerous stretch in the state.

Free Church Fair on Next Friday

The Free Church Fair will be held on Friday afternoon and evening in the parish house. It is being directed by the Ways and Means Committee, chairman, Mrs. William Orr, Mrs. Harrison Brown, Mrs. Harry Stephenson, Mrs. Herbert Allicon, Mrs. David Coutts, Mrs. Leon Field, Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. Edward M. Schubert, Dana Clark and David Coutts.

There will be a Produce Department where may be purchased fruit and vegetables, a Domestic Table, a Food Table, a Handkerchief Table and others. The Christian Endeavor Society has the "Grabs."

On Friday evening at 6:30 the Board of Trustees will make their contribution to the church fair by serving a supper in the parish house at 6:30. The menu will provide a complete hearty meal in addition to baked beans with a choice of meat and desserts. The price is forty cents, and tickets may be obtained from any of the trustees: Leslie Christison, Stanley Hickok, Frank Buttrick, David May and Thomas B. Gorrie. HOME FOR AGED MEETING

The annual meeting of the corporation of the Andover Home for Aged People will be held at the Home, 4 Punchard avenue, on Tuesday evening, October 20, at 7:45 o'clock.

ROY E. SPENCER, Clerk

Andover's part in the coming state election reaches a climax in the next two weeks, with the entire Democratic state ticket scheduled to speak at the town hall in a rally at eight tonight and the entire Republican state ticket due to hold a rally in the town hall on October 27th at 8 p.m.

Included in the list of speakers who are expected to appear in tonight's Democratic rally are Charles Hurley, Paul Dever, Thomas Buckley, Francis Kelly, James M. Curley, James Roosevelt, Charles A. P. MacAree, William P. Connery, William F. Shanahan, Thomas J. Lane, James P. Donnelly, and John Cahill.

Among the speakers at the Republican rally will be John Haigis, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Leverett Saltonstall, Frederic W. Cook, William E. Hurley, and Felix Forte. There will probably be a number of other speakers for the lesser offices.

John W. Haigis, Republican gubernatorial candidate, was born of humble parents in 1881. His father died when he was nine years old and he became a newsboy in the town of Turners Falls. At 13 he was forced to leave school to help support his family and obtained a job as a clerk in a stationery store. Five years later he became a partner in the business.

His public career began at the age of 21, when his neighbors elected him treasurer and tax-collector of Montague. Since then, at frequent intervals, he has served the Commonwealth in many important capacities and simultaneously carried on his own successful business interests. He is intimately familiar with state affairs.

Newspaper man, author, student and observer of foreign affairs, state legislator, expert on labor problems and friend of labor interests, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Republican senatorial candidate, is the able inheritor of a great political tradition, being the grandson of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and nephew of Congressman Augustus P. Gardner.

LOOKS DON'T COUNT—We had quite a bit of fun before the non-partisan rally the other night trying to guess which of the five speakers on the platform belonged to which party. The man second from the end, getting along in years, was obviously Farmer-Labor, and next to him was a well-dressed young man, apparently quite prosperous—he was perhaps a Democrat. Off on the other end was a pleasant-looking man, with hair that had long since turned gray—he was guessed as the Socialist Alfred Baker Lewis (the basis of this guess was a picture of him that we had seen). But those other two fellows stumped us. They were both probably Communists, although by a process of elimination we had a Republican, a Unionite and a Communist yet to find. One of them had considerable hirsute growth, too long to be called hair, on his face, and that made us wonder if perhaps he might not be the Communist type that left Russia before the most recent five-year plan with its introduction of razors went into effect. The other fellow we assumed was also Communist, primarily because he looked quite scholarly.

We were right on Alfred Baker Lewis, but the one we thought was Farmer-Labor turned out to be Republican, the Democrat was Farmer-Labor, and the fellow with the copious growth on his face was no less than a Democrat. The scholarly young man really was a Communist. So it's not what you look like, it's where the X goes on your ballot that determines what your political allegiance shall be.

American Educational, Missionary, and Temperance Societies All Formed in House Now Occupied by Dr. Fuess

It seems impossible that in one house there should have taken place the organization of the American Board of Foreign Missions, the launching of the American Educational society, the establishment of the Boston Recorder (the first religious newspaper in the world), the founding of the American Temperance society and the American Tract society, and the writing of a number of novels and stories, but all these things did happen in one house and that house is right here in Andover.

Today it stands at 189 Main street, the residence of Headmaster and Mrs. Claude M. Fuess. Finished in 1812 as the first of the residences to be built for the Theological Seminary faculty, it is still today architecturally the finest house in Andover. Its architectural excellence arises mainly from the fact that the donor of the house, William Bartlet of Newburyport, one of the associate founders of the seminary, had told Dr. Edward Dorr Griffin, the intended first occupant, to construct and furnish the house according to his own taste, and this Dr. Griffin did. Mr. Bartlet kept his word, although he did protest to Dr. Griffin when the latter had some wall-paper costing a dollar a roll hung in the rooms. Being evidently a very agreeable pedagogue, Dr. Griffin complied with the economy request, pasted twenty-five cents a roll paper over the dollar paper, and sent the bill for both to Mr. Bartlet!

PUBLISHED FIRST WEEKLY

The first to actually occupy the house was Dr. Ebenezer Porter, and in 1834 Dr. Justin Edwards, who on May 27, 1829, had established The Journal of Humanity and Herald of the American Temperance Society, the first weekly paper in Andover, became the occupant. During Dr. Porter's residence the large study room was the scene of numerous meetings of such men as Dr. Woods, Squire Farrar, Deacon Mark Newman, Principal John Adams, Professor Moses Stuart and Dr. Edwards, and these frequent meetings resulted in the formation of the American Board, the American Educational society, the American Temperance society and the American Tract society, in addition to the starting of the Recorder.

The house is named for its later resident, Professor Austin Phelps, who came in 1848. It was here that his daughter, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, wrote her novels and stories, and the little garden house in which she did her work still stands.

(Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles on old Andover homes. The material is mainly taken from a pamphlet written by Scott H. Paradise a few years ago and published by the Historical society.)

Landon Leading as Poll Nears End

There was little change in percentage standings of the respective candidates at the close of the eighth week of balloting in the nation-wide county weekly poll in which the Townsman took part. Landon maintained his lead in 27 states to 12 states for Roosevelt. There were not votes enough or of sufficient volume from any new states to warrant including them in the national tabulation.

Of the 39 states in this poll, five of them show the voting extremely close, with the possibility that they may swing over to the other column in the final tabulations now under way here. These states are Connecticut, Minnesota, North Dakota, Oregon and Washington. The leads, by either Roosevelt or Landon might easily be wiped out by the last week vote.

In popular vote terms, as disclosed by this week's totals, Landon is leading Roosevelt in the small town and country vote on the ratio of about 5 to 3. Lemke has poled his largest vote in Minnesota, Michigan, Indiana and Iowa, but in no instant is the vote large enough to threaten the leaders.

At the close of the 8th week of balloting, 919,441 votes from 39 states had been tabulated.

Herewith are the standings of the six presidential candidates in the country newspaper poll at the close of the eighth week:

Landon	522,083	56.8%
Roosevelt	340,053	37.0
Lemke	43,102	4.7
Thomas	7,171	0.8
Colvin	2,852	0.3
Browder	4,180	0.4
	919,441	100.0%

"The New Townsman" of 1887 Was the Third Weekly in History of Andover

"The new Townsman"—you see what it is like now that the paper is starting its fiftieth year; what was "the new Townsman" like when it started its first year?

It was an eight-page paper, each page having five columns about fourteen inches in length, the column being somewhat wider than the present Townsman column, which is now the generally accepted newspaper standard. "The Andover Townsman" was spelled out in a large arc at the head of the front page, and below the lettering were pictures of library, schools, churches and factories. Above the date line ran these words: "Andover, everywhere and always, first, last, she has been the manly, straight-forward, sober, patriotic, New England town."—Phillips Brooks. Over the years that line has continued on the Townsman's front page, the only change having been made evidently by someone who couldn't reconcile the "she" and "manly."

The entire left side of the front page was taken up by advertising, the remainder being devoted to a few news stories, principal among them being the one about the firemen's muster. The second page had a column of poetry and a column entitled "Selections," one of them being on Oliver Wendell Holmes in Europe and the other on Caleb Cushing in Charleston. There was also a "Children's Circle." Page three had a feature headed "Of Public Interest," the subject being the Constitutional amendment for the suppression of intemperance.

addition to the introductory editorial, there was included a few columns of "Andover News," unheaded. The fifth page was devoted to North Andover, Boxford, Ballardvale and West Boxford. "Original" was the heading of a column on page 6, the story being on the feeding system in Europe by M. S. McCurdy. Then there was the Auld-Lang-Syne column, the aim of which was to revive the past. Page seven boasted a Farmer's column and a book corner, while page 8 was devoted to special notices, births, deaths, etc.

THE THIRD ANDOVER WEEKLY

The Townsman was the third Andover weekly. On May 27, 1829, "The Journal of Humanity and Herald of the American Temperance Society" began its short existence, Dr. Justin Edwards being the moving force behind it. It was printed by Flagg and Gould at the junction of South Main and Buck streets. It was discontinued in 1833.

On February 19, 1853, the Andover Advertiser appeared with the very apt motto: "The life of agriculture, trade and commerce is a good advertising medium." It was published every Saturday at the office of John D. Flagg, opposite Phillips academy. The original size was 14 by 11 inches, with four columns to a page, but afterwards it was enlarged somewhat. In May, 1855, W. F. Draper bought out Mr. Flagg, and eleven years later the paper was sold out to the Lawrence American, the last issue appearing February 10, 1866. George Foster was the editor, with Dr. Eastman Sanborn and Moses Foster assisting.

Early in the summer of 1887 several Andover citizens consulted on the feasibility of establishing a paper, and a circular which was sent out having received a favorable response, a company was formed to publish a paper and for doing, in connection with it, job printing. The necessary stock was raised and the corporation duly incorporated. Draper's printing business was bought out and new equipment added.

C. C. Carpenter was the first editor, and John N. Cole was the treasurer of the corporation which had its offices at 36 and 38 Main street. The men responsible for the establishment of the paper were Eben Sutton, George W. W. Dove, Joseph W. Smith, William S. Jenkins, E. K. Jenkins, T. A. Holt,

Free Church C. E. Chooses Officers

Last Sunday evening occurred the annual election of officers of the Free Church Christian Endeavor Society. The officers elected were: President, Miss Margaret Kinnear; vice president, Miss Ruth Napier; secretary, Miss Ruth Hartman; and treasurer, Miss Martha Thompson.

As a part of the Emergency Peace Campaign there will be a special speaker at the meeting next Sunday evening. Mr. Richard Takeson, president of the Lawrence Union will speak on World Peace. Miss Ruth Napier will render a violin solo. This meeting is open to others beside members of the society.

Circular Saw Cuts Off Boy's Finger

The Babicki family on High Plain road, which a month ago laid the head of the family, Frank Babicki, in his final resting-place after he had been gored to death by a bull, had some more hard luck Saturday morning, when Henry, aged 13, lost a finger of his right hand in a circular saw.

The youngster was removed to the Lawrence General hospital where he underwent treatment.

Firemen Hope for Major Bowes' Unit

A Major Bowes unit will be the entertainment for the annual fireman's ball this year if the hopes of the committee are realized. The ball will be held on Thanksgiving eve, as usual.

On the committee are William Collins, Robert Jackson, Herbert Brown, Edward Downs, and Henry Pomeroy.

Born in 1902, he was educated at Harvard College and soon afterwards became staff reporter for the Boston Evening Transcript at the Massachusetts State House. At the conclusion of his apprenticeship as political observer there, he represented the New York Herald-Tribune in Washington and as an editor in the home office. In the former position he regularly covered the White House and the government departments as well as the conventions of both major parties in 1924, 1928 and 1932.

In his trips abroad he interviewed many of the outstanding statesmen of Europe, covered the Nicaraguan Revolution of 1928, studied comparative methods of colonial government in the Far East and attended the London Naval Conference of 1930.

In 1932 and 1934 he was elected representative to the General Court by majorities exceeding all previous records and became a member of the Committee on Municipal Finance and of the Committee on Public Health, chairman of the Committee on Labor and Industries, and vice-chairman of the Commission on Interstate Compacts affecting labor and industry. Tied to no vested interest, either political or economic, his chairmanship of the Committee on Labor and Industries resulted in employers and employees for the first time concluding agreements on principal points of dispute before the legislature.

Lawyer, World War veteran, assistant District Attorney of Middlesex county, Newton Alderman, Member of the Legislature since 1923 and Speaker of the House of Representatives for the past eight years—the longest term of any Speaker in more than a century—Leverett Saltonstall, running for lieutenant-governor, was born in Newton. He is 43 years old and has been a lifelong resident of the Commonwealth.

Under his Speakership Massachusetts has held true to its progressive tradition in realizing the passage of legislation affecting Old Age Security, Mother's Aid, Injured Workmen's Compensation, Unemployment Insurance, Peaceful Picketing, an anti-Injunction Bill, abolition of the Yellow Dog Contract, and the advancement of services for the mentally ill, consumptives and other victims of economic maladjustment.

He is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School. As a soldier he won distinction in France, being recommended for a captaincy after he had served six months overseas with the 301st Field Artillery.

He was married in 1916 to Alice Wesselhoeft and today is the father of five children.

Born in Somerville, Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook was educated in the Somerville public schools and prepared for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Chancing to take the Massachusetts civil service examinations as a test, he was surprised to find that he stood number one and as a consequence was offered an appointment as assistant clerk of committees. Later he was appointed assistant city clerk of Somerville and in 1909 was unanimously elected city clerk.

This office he held without opposition until 1921 when he was elected Secretary of the Commonwealth. Since then he has always been the unopposed Republican candidate for that office and, due to the general respect in which he is held, has easily retained his position even in landslide years.

Letter carrier, postoffice inspector, assistant postmaster and then postmaster of Boston for more than four years, William E. Hurley, candidate for state treasurer, was outstanding in his management of the largest postal district in the country. In that position he supervised the work of 6,000 employees, was responsible for an annual payroll of $12,000,000 and for a flow of $200,000,000 in postal savings and money orders each year. He was the first career postmaster of Boston and was also the first to receive a rating of 100 per cent from the postal inspection service.

Born in Boston in 1874, he received his early education at the Bigelow Grammar School in South Boston and then attended the Boston English High School and Burdett College. After a short business career he was appointed a letter carrier at the Boston postoffice in 1898. Nine years later he was promoted to the position of inspector at Washington, D. C., and in 1915 became assistant postmaster of Boston. He advanced to the head of the district in 1931.

Brilliant lawyer, student of public affairs, author of legal textbooks, member of a law school faculty and the youngest man ever to be admitted to the Massachusetts Bar, Felix Forte, nominee for attorney-general, brings to this important office a record of honesty, industry and a profound knowledge both of the law and of state business.

Born in Boston in 1895, Mr. Forte was educated in the Boston public schools and Boston University and was awarded the degree of Doctor of Juridical Science by the Harvard Law School, the highest earned honor granted by that Institution. At college he distinguished himself as a student, graduating at the head of his class and then becoming the youngest man who ever took the Massachusetts Bar examinations.

From the time he entered the practice of law in 1916, he was conspicuously successful as a lawyer, tried hundreds of cases before the courts of the Commonwealth and was admitted to practice before the Federal Courts and the Supreme Court of the United States. In 1921 he was appointed to the faculty of the Boston University Law School and eight years later became a full professor. He was created a special justice of the Somerville District Court by Governor Frank G. Allen in 1930.

Failure of W. P. A. to Provide Work Is Chief Criticism of Administration

Has the United States recovered? Is the country any better off than it was four years ago? Is business in the United States and is employment in the United States at the level that they should be?

The Democratic party answers all these questions in the affirmative; the facts answer them in the negative. Go along our own Main street, and ask the businessmen if their condition can even approach the prosperity under the Republican administrations of the last decade. Go into the town hall any day, wait around about fifteen minutes, and someone will come in to plead for work on the W.P.A., or to ask for food, clothing, fuel—is that recovery?

The W.P.A., which has been so highly-touted by the Democratic speakers from the President right down through, is a failure as far as relieving unemployment is concerned, and that is the only reason given for its establishment and its continued existence. Despite the P.W.A., despite the W.P.A., despite all the other experiments of the Democratic administration, unemployment today still ranks as the country's most outstanding problem.

It's a problem that is going to have a great influence on the coming presidential election. Early returns in the Literary Digest Poll, generally conceded to be a fairly accurate prediction of the actual election results, show that Landon is leading, but the Democrats are discounting this poll this year because they feel that the W.P.A. workers, none of whom would in all probability be on the Digest mailing list, would all vote solidly for Roosevelt, thus more than neutralizing the votes of the class of people who are on the list. But they overlook the fact that there are a very large number of unemployed who are not being taken care of by the W.P.A., men who are forced to loaf at home while others more favored are allowed to loaf on a so-called project, and these men will not support Roosevelt.

These unemployed were told four years ago that they would be given work, and the man who made that promise has kept it in the same way as he has kept all his other promises. They have not been given work, they are no better off than they were, and yet they know that enormous sums of money have been spent on relief for someone else, money that they know has been wasted, squandered.

These unemployed read the lofty, noble words emanating from the White House, and they wonder. The words sound empty to them, and they know that the President's statements that recovery is here, mean just as much as did his promises four years ago when he told them that he would put them to work.

The End of the Trail

James M. Curley has evidently been doing a little reading lately, his particular choice of reading matter being the handwriting on the wall. The Governor makes a rather comical, and withal, a rather pathetic spectacle as the campaign nears its close. Deserted by his former supporters, disowned by all the party bigwigs from the President down, he is stumbling around trying to find some way, no matter what, to stave off a defeat that is inevitable. His many pleadings with Father Coughlin to have the Union Party senatorial candidate withdraw in his favor, his frantic attempt to curry the President's lost favor by attempting to spend $10,000 of the taxpayers' money on a huge celebration for the President's coming campaign speech here, his trying to pass off this plan as a joke when the President said "No, thank you" to him—it's a picture of a man who knows he's beaten, a man grasping at a last straw as he sinks in the ignoble defeat that our democracy reserves for men who conduct the affairs of the public in James M. Curley's off-color ways.

A Serious Danger

The coming of fall and the reopening of school has seen no let-down in the number of bicycles using our main highways, and unfortunately our main sidewalks. There is a very rigid regulation prohibiting bicycling on the sidewalk, and another regulation also requires the use of lights after dark on bicycles. Andover's youngsters seem to want to disobey both of these rules which have a very sound basis of common sense. There have been a number of bicycle accidents in Andover in the past few months, some of them serious and some of them not, but all of them could have been more serious, and until parents make their children obey these two simple regulations, the danger of there being some real tragedy in our midst will be ever-present.

A Signless Town

Even those who were unalterably opposed to the adoption of the zoning by-law must admit that one of its clauses has made it possible to stop one thing that citizens of Andover and every other community have long deprecated: the plastering of political signs everywhere, on telephone poles, vacant lots, even vacant houses. There is not a political sign up on any public place in Andover, unless it is in some out-of-the-way place that the eye of the police department has not yet noticed. A trip through any of the neighboring towns, particularly Lawrence, will give ample proof of how fortunate the town was to have adopted this particular regulation. Candidates evidently think that the bigger letters they can print their name in, the more votes they will get. It may be true, but certainly it shows that they have little respect for the appearance of the community in which they seek votes. Most of the signs are hideous, real eyesores, and more often than not they are left standing long after the election is all over. Other communities might well take a lead from Andover's book and adopt a regulation similar to ours.

Siftings

Lawrence wants us to pay part of the cost of the rate reduction fight, but so far the public utilities commission hasn't demanded any commission.

If this is Indian summer, there must be a lot of Eskimo in Indians.

Politicians evidently must have two qualities: supercritical and hypocritical.

Governor Curley will pay his final visit as an office-holder to the town tonight.

P. T. A. to Meet in Music Room

The Andover P.T.A. will meet on Wednesday evening at eight in the music room of the new junior high school. An open forum will be held at which time various matters in connection with the new school plans will be discussed. Particular attention will be paid to the new physical education program, to the new science studies, and to a number of other points.

Parents are reminded that no parking will be allowed at the front of the high school, but that there is plenty of space in the new parking area between Samuel Jackson school and the new buildings.

CHRIST CHURCH NOTES

Sixteen women attended the Merrimack meeting of the Church Service League in Grace Church, Lawrence, on Wednesday. Mrs. Charles Hill spoke on the "Forward Movement" and Mrs. A. M. Paddock on "Our Parish Council."

The Woman's Guild will sponsor a card party in the Parish House on Friday afternoon October 30th. Mrs. Isaac Brockbank and Mrs. Charles Henry are co-chairmen. Tickets may be secured from members.

A letter was received in the summer from Fort Yukon in Alaska thanking the Church School for the Christmas box. It had to be sent in June and it made very excellent connections. If it had started later, the letter said, it would have been lost, as two steamers in succession were sunk by accidents and the mail perished.

The Scout Master and committee, with other interested men, meet tonight to plan for the scout troop of 1936-37.

Miss Bouve Stresses Importance of Physical Education at P. T. A. Meeting

The first meeting of the season of the Shawsheen P.T.A. was held in the school hall Wednesday evening. The brief business session was presided over by Mrs. Harold T. Houston.

Mrs. Harold Eastwood and Mrs. Houston were named as delegates to the Mass. P.T.A. convention now being held in Springfield. They will attend Thursday's session.

Miss Lillian Murray, soprano and Howard Galley were accompanied by Mr. Irving Wilkinson. Miss Murray sang "Summer Wind" by Bischoff and "O Dry Those Tears" by Del Riego, and Mr. Galley's selections were "O Vision Fair" from opera Esmeralda and "Homing" by Del Riego.

The speaker of the evening, Miss Marjorie Bouve, director of the Bouve-Boston school of Physical Education spoke on the value of a physical education, and interesting moving pictures of indoor exercises and outdoor activities were shown.

Miss Bouve's contention is that if a school is to have a football team, it should look after the physical welfare of all the pupils first. Physical education should be taught every day—and taught by some one who gives all his time to it. A normal child is physically and mentally well balanced.

The sixth grade mothers served cider and doughnuts. The room mothers: Mrs. James Ashburn, and Mrs. Charles Ware were chairmen, being assisted by Mrs. Earl Baker, Mrs. William A. Trow, Mrs. Garfield Chase, Mrs. Charles Cary, Mrs. James Dean, Mrs. Thomas Davies, Mrs. H. I. Emmons, Mrs. Charles Flanagan, Mrs. P. MacLellan, Mrs. George Monan, Mrs. H. McNeil, Mrs. F. New School Buildings to Be Open to Public from 2 to 9 Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon and evening the people of Andover will have their long-awaited opportunity to view the new half-a-million dollar school plant. From two to nine, the entire plant is being thrown open for the public, and while there will be no formal dedicatory or acceptance exercises, it is expected that many Andover residents will be present to examine the new set of buildings, actual construction on which was started about a year and a half ago. The movement to erect the buildings was started a little over three years ago.

The main unit of the new plant is the auditorium building connected to both high and junior high by underground and above-ground corridors. The facade is exceedingly attractive, especially at night when lights concealed in the panels between the large white columns illuminate the whole front. There are a number of high granite steps, and the buttresses are granite. The row of classic pilasters is surmounted by a Grecian pediment.

The vestibule has a groin ceiling on which light is reflected from bulbs concealed in the coves. There are a series of fluted pilasters surmounted by a classic cornice. Heat is supplied by indirect radiators.

FOYER PRETTIEST PART

One of the prettiest parts of the whole set of buildings is the auditorium

Music Room in New Junior High School

foyer. The floor is a herringbone pattern made of very serviceable, impregnated, laminated flooring. The frieze and jigsaw work on the walls are works of art, and the pediments above the doorways add to the beauty of the foyer. Again there is indirect lighting from the coves. There are also two ample cloak-rooms. There are mahogany doors between the foyer and the auditorium and between the stair hall and the balcony.

There are 861 seats in the auditorium including the balcony. The windows are covered with maroon and gold velour draperies, flame-proofed as are the aisle carpets. Lighting is provided by six large chandeliers, 48 bulbs in the sky-lights, and six wall-brackets. In the balcony there are eight flush fixtures, eight wall-brackets and 24 bulbs in the skylight. The exit lights are all on a separate switch, each having an emergency light which goes on automatically when the regular light current fails. Heat is provided by unit heaters, the tempered air coming through in mushroom ventilators under each seat and leaving the room via six floorline ducts.

The movie booth in the balcony has an acme simplex combined visual and sound machine, a spotlight, a stereopticon and a color wheel. Two other spotlights are available.

The proscenium opening on the stage is 76 feet across, allowing a full view of everything that goes on in the gymnasium which is on the same floor-level as the stage. Overhead there are three rows of three-color border lights, three sky borders, one screen border, a set of stage curtains, an asbestos curtain which drops in 15 seconds, the speaker for the moving picture and the screen. The curtains are controlled from a pin balcony. The footlights are three-color.

96 CIRCUIT SWITCHBOARD

The big stage switchboard has 96 circuits, and there are 37 rheostats for dimming the stage, gymnasium and auditorium lights. There are interior phones throughout the school, and the stage phone connects with the rest of the system and also with the movie projection booth.

The gymnasium may be divided from the auditorium by two sets of folding doors, 16 feet four inches high, the total run being 84 feet. The large gym may again be divided into a boys and a girls gym by another folding door, 18 feet high, with a 60 foot run. The gym is equipped with a set of basketball backstops for both boys and girls and a set for the entire length. In the boys gym there are stall bars, parallel bars, horizontal bars, mats, high-jump standards, a horse and a buck. The girls' gym will be equipped with stall bars, flying rings and mats.

The lighting and heating may be controlled separately for each gym.

The physical directors' rooms are off to the side, as are little rooms with drinking fountains.

There are four sets of fold-up bleachers, seating about 125, along the back-wall. There are also 900 portable chairs, which after being used are loaded on special trucks and dropped into the basement by a block and tackle.

Half a Million Dollar Plant Adds to Town's Beauty

UNIT HEATER SYSTEM

In the room where the chairs are stored, there are four big exhaust motors, one of which takes the air out of the auditorium and balcony, another out of the cafeteria, the third out of the gym and the fourth out of the locker rooms. The unit heater system used in the building brings the fresh air in from the outside, tempers it, sends it into the room which is thermostat controlled. In the winter the air goes out by forced exhaust through the floor-line outlets, and in the summer it goes out by outlets above. A fifth exhaust motor is in the kitchen.

The cafeteria equipment consists of a dish-washing and rinsing machine, a water cooler, traffic rails of stainless steel, tray slides, ice cream coolers, display counter, steam table, two movable work tables, utensil rack, glass sink, booster water heater, toastmaster, vegetable peeler, electric slicer, aluminum jacketed stock pot, two baking ovens, pastry oven, power mixer and meat grinder, bake table and a large electric refrigerator.

There is ample storage room, not only in the cafeteria, but throughout the whole building. There are a number of janitors' closets.

The locker rooms have steel lockers for street clothes and basket lockers for gym clothes, a combination pad-lock serving both. There are 15 showers for boys and nine for girls, the water being tempered so that it never goes more than 110 degrees. Footbaths, an ounce of prevention for athlete's foot, are found in both. There are 500 lockers in each section.

In addition to the rooms for the school children there is also a large room for visiting teams and town teams each supplied with toilet and shower facilities.

EMERGENCY LIGHTING

Off the shower rooms is a storage battery room which provides emergency lighting in any case when the power supply is cut off. The emergency current goes on automatically the minute the other is cut off. There are four tons of batteries in the room, enough to keep the emergency lights going for three hours. The minute the batteries discharge, a charger starts up, and it will entirely recharge in 24 hours. This is also connected with the fire alarm system, and if there is a break in the fire alarm circuit a gong immediately starts ringing and there is no way of stopping it until the break is found.

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM

The public address system consists of microphones, portable turntable for the playing of records, amplifier, and loudspeakers. There are five microphones of varying types, and there are six speakers, two each in the auditorium, gymnasium and cafeteria. A person may be heard in all three places at the same time.

SCHOOL BUILDING

The main features of the junior high school building are the colored plaster making use of paint unnecessary, the 500 built-in lockers each individually ventilated, the toilet rooms for boys and girls on each floor, the asphalt tile flooring in all corridors and in the ground-floor classrooms, the austral windows, and the ample storage facilities.

The highlights to be seen include the music room, with its own little stage, done in French style resembling a drawing-room of the Louis XIV period; the cooking room with its up-to-the-minute equipment, the principal's office suite, the manual training room and the dental room.

Three rooms have folding-doors

Interior of Boys' Half of New Gymnasium

making it possible to divide them into separate classrooms. The doors have austral sashes for no-draft ventilation in the non-heating season. There is thermostatic control for the unit heaters which admit tempered air at the rate of 25 cubic feet per person per minute, the exhaust being by means of three fans mounted on the roof, with ducts leading to each room.

The furniture is adapted to each different type of room, whether it be general science, drawing, or any of the other phases of junior high curriculum.

There are directional lights in the corridors, so arranged as to shed light along the floor and not on the upper walls. The class-rooms are so arranged that all light comes over the student's left shoulder, the windows being built almost to the top of the rooms for this purpose. The lights on each side of the room are controlled by separate switches, so that those farthest from the windows may be put on when needed.

The clocks in each classroom are electrically operated, with a signal in each clock regulated by a tape in the principal's office for signaling the end of periods, etc.

The corridors are fire-proof and the floors are of fire-proof construction.

Young Man of 25 in Charge of Building

To two graduates of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology belongs much of the credit for the excellent construction of the new school buildings. One of them is getting along in years, 67 years old; the other is just starting out in life, being only 25 years old.

Perley F. Gilbert, the architect, graduated from Phillips academy and later from M.I.T. In the initial stages of the move for a new school he offered his services free to the school committee and his advice as to the lay-out of the buildings was followed. Later he was hired by the building committee to draw up the actual plans. To him these buildings were all-important; they were something Andover needed, and he was determined that his town should get the very best there was. Where other architects would have passed off most of the routine work on subordinates in their staffs, Perley Gilbert took care of even the most minute details.

John A. Robertson, the town's representative on the project, proved a very important cog in Perley's determination that Andover should get the best. He graduated from Phillips academy in 1928 and from Tech with his B.S. in building construction in 1932.

John A. Robertson

COMMITTEE WONDERED

The building committee, most of whom had years of experience in their various fields, pondered a long time before they finally decided to give this very young man the job as town's representative. They were never sorry, for it was not long before they found that they had hired a young man with a mind of his own, and that mind very definitely was determined that every single detail of the construction should be just as specified by contract, by law and by all the tenets of good building construction. Faulty construction of other buildings had meant large expenditures by the school board for repairs; this, both John and Perley decided, must not happen on these buildings. If materials were not up to standard, back they went; if work was not done as it should be, it was done over.

John Robertson was born in Andover in 1911. At the academy he made a name for himself as a javelin thrower, in which event he also excelled at Tech. For several summers during his school years, he served as head lifeguard at Pumps pond where his pleasant manner won him many friends among the youngsters. At 25 he has had charge of building a half a million dollar school plant; he has encountered all kinds of problems, from technical engineering ones to such human problems as building trade strikes.

Tuesday morning, his work practically cleaned up on the new buildings, he went to work for Horne Brothers, builders in Boston, as a field superintendent. On Thanksgiving day morning he will become the husband of Miss Hazel Polgreen of Washington avenue.

MASSACHUSETTS LEAGUE IN HOME AFFAIRS SCHOOL

Speakers drawn from four political parties, administrators of public affairs and departments of government have been secured for the Home Affairs School which will be held under the auspices of the Massachusetts and Boston League of Women Voters, Wednesday, October 21 at the Hotel Sheraton, Boston. "Believing that voters will welcome a reasoned, balanced discussion of party platforms, party allegiances and issues about which there is wide difference of opinion, the school program will be entirely given to "The Issues of 1936 Election," according to the statement made by Mrs. Richard H. Field, President, in announcing the completed program. Mrs. Field pointed out also the league's factual approach to public questions and its non-partisan attitude toward candidates for public office.

"Why I Vote as I Do," the topic of a symposium, opening at 11.30 o'clock, is to be discussed by Mrs. George A. Wyeth, former President Women's National Republican Club; Mrs. Nellie Swartz, Democrat, Member Industrial Board of New York; Alfred Baker Lewis, Socialist, candidate for Governor, and Thomas C. O'Brien, Union candidate for Vice President.

During the luncheon, Hon. Frederic W. Cook will exhibit and explain the November Ballot and describe the functions of the Ballot Law Commission. Guests invited to luncheon include candidates for Governor of the State.

Calvert Magruder, Professor of Law, Harvard University, will speak at 2.30 o'clock on the topic, "The Federal Constitution in Politics." This issue has been chosen because of its significance in relation to the fundamentals of government; the next discussion,—"Work Relief as a Continuing Solution of a Permanent Problem," has been chosen as an issue basic and perplexing in relation to other public problems. Paul Edwards, Acting Administrator W.P.A. for Massachusetts, will be the first speaker. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. has been invited to close the debate.

Because the hall will seat only 250, tickets at $1.00 should be secured in advance. Mail orders will be filled promptly at the League office, 31 Mount Vernon Street, Boston. Tickets bought in advance will entitle holders to seats in the reserved section of the hall.

EDITORIAL—OUR CAMPUS

Those of you who have not seen our campus, have missed something which you may not see in any other school throughout the state. We have the most beautiful campus, which is equalled only by the school itself. The small pines stand out majestically against the setting of the fine new building which we are glad to be able to call the new Andover Junior High School.

The lawns have just been seeded and the new trees planted, and together, our campus and our school, are a sight which no one should fail to witness. They contrast deeply with the autumn foliage which is at this time of year, in its prime.

Such a scene is indeed a tribute to the fruits of education. It is one of the beauty spots in this town, which is noted for its education. If it is kept in good condition and used with consideration, it will remain to be, for many years, one of Andover's most admired sites.

Therefore if you have not as yet seen our campus you must try to do so at the most convenient time, and also you will see that of which we are proudest, our new junior high school building.

CANDIDATES CAMPAIGN OVER LOUD-SPEAKERS

Last Friday the entire school had the opportunity to hear its first broadcast from station A-J-H-S. (Andover Junior High School). Mr. Sherman, as announcer, read a short article in which was stressed that it is not the officials who make a state, but that the state really consists of every good citizen; that a state's government really is one of the people, by the people, and for the people; that we ourselves are the state.

The various candidates for offices in the Student Government then presented their platforms to the student body. Bob Flanagan, campaign manager for William Ferguson, nominee for president, stressed his candidate's numerous qualities and then introduced Ferguson who assured all he would fight to maintain the standards set forth by his manager. He spoke particularly about allowing more self-government by reducing the traffic squad to a minimum, and of the grouping of clubs. He felt each club should know more about what the others were doing.

Next Norman Whitaker introduced Augustine Rhapsardi as another candidate for president. Rhapsardi promised to support the student body in their wishes and to allow as much freedom as the students were able to handle efficiently. He also stressed the need for electing a man of fortitude, perseverance, and ability.

Tom Davies, in his ever humorous manner, brought out very strongly Ben Forbes' qualities that would make him a vice-president to be proud of—that Forbes has had many offices of honor, that he was an active member of last year's council, and that he could admirably act as president if need be. Forbes pledged himself to the good of the school and noted that he was well acquainted with the constitution, as he was a member of the committee who formed it.

The opposing candidate for vice-president, Elinor Houston, was introduced by Dorothy Christie who noted Elinor's ability to conduct meetings, as proved in previous years. Elinor urged that the school have both boy and girl representatives so that sectional meetings might be conducted if desired. As did the other candidates, she expressed her approval of the new student activity plan.

For the office of secretary Isabelle Dobbie presented Janet Carter who stated that she would make no specific promises but would do only what anyone could do—her best. She pledged herself to the best interests of the school and noted that she would make it a point to keep the school informed of the actions of the Student Government.

Lastly, Warren Richardson spoke in behalf of Barbara Gahn and stressed Barbara's qualities of efficiency, tact, honesty, responsibility, leadership, and dependability. Barbara then expressed her desire to serve her school in the best manner possible. Her experience as secretary of her home room last year and recording secretary of the Library Club, she felt, would make her a capable one.

FILMS ON TELEPHONE SHOWN IN ASSEMBLY

On Tuesday, we had a very nice assembly sponsored by the Student Government Association. We had as guests the students of the high school. This was the first assembly that we had had together.

Mr. Gannon of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was there and showed us three films connected with communication. The first was an amusing comedy-cartoon showing how telephones are assembled entitled "Getting Together."

The second was a film called "Far Speaking" and told of the development of the telephone from 1877 to present days. It showed a man in the days when eggs were eight cents a dozen, talking from his home to his office. This was considered rather strange in those days and the telephone was regarded as a toy.

In 1878 was the first commercial telephone exchange. In 1881 there were 393; 1885—1,175. In 1890 when long distance began there were 1,241. In 1900—2,775. The continent was spanned in 1915. In 1925 Harding spoke to an official in Cuba. 1927—between nations: New York to London. 1935—Phone talk encircled the globe.

The third was a very interesting picture entitled "Network Broadcasting." It showed the types of broadcasting in all walks of life. It showed how sound is transmitted, and the work of repeater stations in preparing for the next broadcast in radio stations.

Mr. Gannon then told us that in the near future the telephone company would have an open house, in Lawrence and Andover, at which time anyone may visit the telephone headquarters and see how the work is carried out in the switchboard and terminal rooms. He said that Mr. Cassidy would notify Mr. Sherman when we would be able to do this.—WARREN L. RICHARDSON

In the Safety Education Magazine for October is a full page on what we did in the line of safety work last year. A general summary tells of the class-work, assemblies, traffic in and out of the building, poster displays, the safety contest in which all took part, and the school boy patrol at the John Dove last year. Accompanying this article "They Learn by Doing" are two photographs—one of the last year's Safety Council at Stowe which consisted of Priscilla Moss, Barbara Gahn, John Collins, John Skea, and Larry Eccles; and one of the John Dove Schoolboy Patrol which includes these present members of the Andover Junior High: John Sweeney, Robin Nunez, Jerry Andrews, James Renny, A. Mannoek, W. Gordon, and Mahoney.

A poem entitled "Sense and Safety" by Priscilla Moss also appears in this issue.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT RECORDS

The treasurers of each home room are keeping the Student Government accounts for their rooms. Last week Charles Sawyer, Donald Boynton, and Madeleine Grout had the neatest and most accurate accounts.

PUPILS ENJOY GLASSBLOWING

Upon the challenge of a Doubting Thomas, Mr. Blanchard, home room teacher of the General Science room, proved that glass could be bent, and that it could be blown into different shapes. He demonstrated glassblowing. The members of that room spent a most enjoyable utility period.—PHILIP TOOHEY

CORRECTIVE CLASS

With the new Physical Education department there is a chance for much work to be done in the correction of physical defects. Mr. Dunn has organized a class to help remedy fallen arches. There are about 140 boys in this class. In the corrective period, the boys are shown how they may overcome this difficulty and are given exercises to be done daily.—JOSEPH PAYNE

ATTRACTIVE GYM SUITS

The eighth grade boys met Wednesday for gym. It was quite a colorful sight with the new gym suits consisting of white jerseys and bright blue shorts. Mr. Dunn is very much pleased with them, and they are proving very popular among the students.

The girls, also, are displaying gym suits of vivid blue.—JOHN ERVING

7-2 WATCHING THE WEATHER

In 7-2 in connection with Social Studies, John Sweeney has been checking the temperature every night and marking a chart each morning. He has found that the temperature does vary quite a bit here in New England.—PAULINE MACMACKIN

VISIT ART GALLERY

The Addison Art Gallery was visited by all the eighth grades during the past week. In the Art Gallery were found many interesting pieces of furniture of the Middle Ages. There was a very fine exhibit of glassware, of silver made by Paul Revere and the Dutch, and paintings by Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, and others.

The 8-3 division was congratulated on its excellent co-operation.—BENJAMIN COLE

PUPPET DEMONSTRATION

Ruth Keith of 9-3 gave a fifteen minute talk on the history of puppets during the 9-6 English period on Tuesday. Ruth demonstrated the making and the working of the puppets. The puppets, Mammy Lou, Mother Bear, and Hokus, were loaned by Miss Davis of the Andover Guild.—GORDON ELLIOT

NEW SCIENCE COURSE

This year, a new course to most of us has been put on our programs under the name of General Science. So far very little has been done, for we are just getting acquainted with this subject and have not delved into the mysteries of the study.

The seventh grade is studying water and has had discussions on the previous flood here in New England. They plan to study the soil and various streams in the future.

In the eighth grade the pupils of four divisions have been studying the stars and the constellations under the guidance of Mr. Dimlich. The other eighth grade division, under Mr. Blanchard, has been working with the metric system of measurement.

The ninth grade has been learning the factors of our environment, and they are planning and working on individual projects.—FREDERIC McDUFFIE

Some of the projects being carried out under the direction of the Science instructors have been done in an excellent manner. The following people deserve much praise on their studies as thus far completed: John Collins of 9-3 who is working on "Weather Conditions—the Barometer, Thermometer, etc.," Warren Deyermund of 9-6 who is studying "The Automobile and How It Works," John Skea 9-6 for his project "The Refrigerator—What Makes It Cold," Margaret McCord of 9-6 who is gathering material on "Diets—What Makes up the Balanced Diet," and Janet Carter of 8-1 whose specific field

under Astronomy is "The Star Groups." —JOHN ERVING

LIBRARY CLUB HOLDS ASSEMBLY

Recently an assembly was held under the direction of the Library Club in the school auditorium. Miss Robinson, the guest speaker, brought a message from the Junior Library. She emphasized the atmosphere that good books create, what books do for us, and that we should not be content with good books but only with the best books. Miss Robinson expressed the hope that the junior high pupils would read more biography this year and gave several very tempting samples. She also spoke of the great interest that has developed in scientific material and spoke of the collection she had in the Junior Library.

This year the 9th grade pupils will use the Junior Library, thus making that unit correspond to ours.

Miss Atkinson then introduced the Library Club of 1936-1937, which consists of three groups: new members, old members, and associate members. These associate members have joined other clubs but stand ready to assist in the library at any time.

The whole Library Club formed a diagram of the new library, and various members explained the location of books and the uses of the new library. —MADELINE GROUT

SOCIAL STUDIES BOOKLET

Having completed their trip to the Art Gallery, the members of 8-1 are making a booklet of what they saw. The booklet will cover the exhibition of Colonial Art and will contain biographies, illustrations and lists of the articles on display.

AUTUMN

Autumn—chill winds and bright sunny skies,
And hither and thither tinted leaves fly;
And geese flying southward in groups of V's,
And odors of bonfires drift on the breeze.

Autumn's chill winds that whistle so shrill
Among the trees and through the hills;
And the amber sun in the azure sky
Is a sign that summer has passed us by.

Hither and thither see the leaves fly—
A rainbow of color before your eye;
Ruby and amber and amethyst too,
Such a glorious carpet, sparkling with dew.

From dawn until dusk in flocks of V's
Flying southward high over the trees,
Sounding their cries, slowly making their way,
The geese migrate southward a long while to stay.

Odors of bonfires drift on the breeze,
And copper light floods the garden with seas

Of reflected light in the neighboring trees;
Only charred ashes remain of the once tinted leaves.

TO OUR READERS

Today we present our new Townsman in a convenient magazine form which has been used by one of New England's most famous weeklies, the Brookline Chronicle for forty years, and which is now being used more and more by other weeklies everywhere.

Its advantages to you are obvious. It's handier, it's more attractive, there's more in it. To us its chief advantage is that with a small size page, extra pages may be much more easily added than with a large page, and that will allow us to adjust the number of pages to the amount of news. We want to carry every bit of Andover news.

Today's issue has considerable first time advertising, making the paper larger than it will be under normal conditions. The average size we expect will be sixteen pages, a marked increase over the size of the old paper.

This being the first time we have tried anything like this, there may be, probably will be, details about its make-up which can be improved, and which will be improved. We ask, as the Townsman founders did back in 1887, for your indulgence until these minor details can be straightened out.

Your support in the past and the support of our advertisers have made our new improved paper possible. We thank you for that support and trust that we shall continue to enjoy it.

Townsend Plan Subject of Rally

The glories of Townsendism were expounded by four speakers in the town hall Wednesday night at a Townsend rally attended by a small group. The talks were interspersed by selections by the Andover Brass band and by other entertainment features.

Dr. Fred G. Bushold of Lawrence, candidate for governor, stated that Townsendism and Coughlinism were one in aims if not in methods. Both Democrats and Republicans are coming to social security, he said, but they are afraid of the capitalists.

Wilbur F. Beale of Boston said that the important thing about the Townsend plan was that it would create jobs for 10,000,000. By putting young people to work, it would cut down crime, would lessen prison costs, welfare costs, and real estate taxes. He alleged that today it was hard to tell a Democrat from a Republican. The economic structure is going to pieces, he claimed, because the little fellow doesn't have much to spend.

Captain Lewis Hewitt of Boston said that the young would get more than the old out of the plan. Sixty percent of the people over 60 in Boston are supported by their children, he said. The plan would mean a demand for more goods. "All we want is a balance of power," he concluded.

Isaac Rich of Boston said that the plan would put two billion dollars into circulation. There are 35,000,000 out of work now, and while the ship of industry has been saved by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the people have been allowed to sink.

Alonzo P. Grinnell of Lynn was chairman. In addition to the Brass band entertainment was provided as follows: tap-dance on roller skates, Joseph Pelletier; readings, Thomas Murphy; and piano selections, William Blyth.

Centre. The officers of the "A" Society for this year are President, Barbara Daniels, Wellesley Hills and Secretary and Treasurer, Martha Sweeney, Andover.

On Friday evening the two clubs of the school will choose their new members. Patricia Burdine of Miami Beach Florida, is president of the Gargoyle Club and Elizabeth Swint of Wilmington, Delaware, is president of the Griffin Club.

The annual Senior picnic will be held at the camp of Miss Gertrude Campion, Haggett's Pond, on Saturday evening. Miss Hearsey and Miss Chickering will be guests of the class.

Rev. A. Graham Baldwin of Phillips Academy will be the speaker at the Vesper service on Sunday evening in Abbot Hall.

Easier to Collect Taxes than to Collect Information about Tax Collector

We decided to start a column on interesting Andover people in our new Townsman, and naturally to start it off we felt that we should pick a subject who was quite well-liked by the townspeople. The annual elections we used as our barometer of likes and dislikes, the result of our research being a decision to drop down to see Bill Cheever, the tax collector, whose vote each year seems to be proportionately similar to what we hope all the Republicans' votes will be this year.

So we went down to the little cubicle in the town house where the tax collector collects. "Bill, we're starting a new series of articles on Andover's leading citizens, and we want to know if you'll lead the series."

"Oh, no, no," he replied with that low-toned voice that we don't think could ever go higher than that pitch. "I wouldn't want to..."

"And we want your picture, too. Do you have one that we could use?"

"There's another paper that has one, but it's terrible... All my pictures look awful. I have some of when I was younger, would you want to use one of them?" He ran his hand over his head.

"Well, we'd rather have a later one." We finally persuaded him to have a new one taken, and there it is.

And the story we had to squeeze out of him, too. Most office-holders stay in office by doing a lot of talking, and getting a lot of publicity about themselves. Bill tends the other way.

He was born June 29, 1860, here in Andover down in what was then called Scotland district, the south part of the town. He attended the local schools and a short while after he completed school he started working as a clerk in T. A.

William B. Cheever
(Andover Art Studio)

Holt's store. Bill believes in keeping jobs a long time; he was at Holt's for 35 years—in fact, he didn't stop working there until the firm stopped working.

In October, 1918, John W. Bell, tax collector, died, and the selectmen appointed George Higgins to take his place. The next March Bill Cheever ran, and was elected, and he's been running, and being elected every year since. In fact, they might just as well leave the office of tax collector off the ballot as far as final results are concerned, for Bill's job seems as secure, or even more secure than if he were on Civil Service.

In August, 1888 Bill married Miss Annie D. Holt, also an Andover girl, and they have had four children. Elsie Cheever is now in Washington, Lyman is married and living on Punchard avenue, Lucy has become Mrs. Fessenden and lives on Bartlet street, and Abbot is at home. The Fessendens have a ten-year-old daughter, Marjorie, the tax collector's only grandchild.

He belongs to the local Masonic lodge and to the Square and Compass club and he is a member of the South church.

We asked Bill if he had any hobby to occupy himself in his spare time, but he hasn't. And it would have made such a good ending to this story if we were able to tell what the tax collector collects when he's not collecting taxes.

Misses Betty and Agnes Deyermund of High street motored over the Mohawk Trail on Sunday.

Boosters' Day for Punchard Team Tomorrow Afternoon

The annual Boosters' Day of the Punchard Athletic association will be held at the Playstead tomorrow afternoon, with Hopkinton the opponents of the local team.

The visitors lost to Westboro 12 to 7 in the season's opener, won from Shrewsbury high 26 to 20 and from Wilmington high 26 to 0, and last week lost 13 to 7 to Medway high school with two stars on the bench.

Gene Lovely will probably start the same line-up as he started last Saturday. The Hopkinton line-up will be: l.e., Haven; l.t., W. Wood (Co-Capt.); l.g., Raubeson; c., Murphy; r.g., Duke-shire; r.t., R. Wilson; r.e., Shilosky; q.b., Cady; l.h.b., McKinnon; r.h.b., Danahy (Co-Capt.); f.b., Phipps.

Lowell and Methuen Fail in Local Dates

The Merrimack Valley district league soccer schedule as far as it affected Andover was all balled up last Sunday. Originally the Methuen team was scheduled to play against the local team, but the Methuenites' inability to secure eleven men forced the cancellation of the contest. Then when the game between Scott St. Anthony of Lowell and Peabody was cancelled because Peabody had no field to play on, the Lowell team was ordered to play Andover here. The referee came out for the contest, the Andover team came out and some spectators came out, but the Lowell team didn't and there was no game.

Methuen had hoped to secure most of last year's Lawrence team, but the bulk of that aggregation is playing with the local outfit.

ANDOVER SOCCER NOTES

The Andover Soccer Team will travel to Manchester, N. H. Sunday to meet the Westminster Club on their home grounds. The Andover Club will leave Andover Square at 12.30 sharp and the game is scheduled for three p.m.

The Club's drawing that was to take place last week has been postponed until November 1, when the locals meet the Lisbon Club of Lowell at the Andover Playstead.

PUNCHARD-READING CANCELLED

The rain last Saturday forced the indefinite postponement of the game scheduled between Punchard and Reading high at Reading.

Andover Loses in Sunday Game

Twice losing the ball within scoring distance the Andover Town team went down to a 6-0 defeat before the Tower Hill Clippers in Lawrence Sunday, the score coming in the final period when the Clippers aided by a 15-yard penalty marched 45 yards over the goal-line. It was the only penalty of the game.

After a fumbled kick-off which Waldie recovered for Andover on the Clippers' 15-yard line, the local team proved unable to gain, losing the ball on downs. Shortly after the second half started Andover marched from the Clippers' 40 to the 7, only to lose the ball again on downs.

HIGH SCHOOL SOPHOMORE GIRLS PLAYING SOCCER

Solveig Haakonsen is captain of a newly-organized high school sophomore soccer team, with Miss Frances Collins, the new physical education instructor, as coach.

Other members of the team are: Theresa Burbine, Anna Gill, Alice Bertram, Priscilla Glines, Mildred Forsythe, Agnes Martinson, Mary Mac-Tammany, Louise Higgins, Mary McNulty, Kathleen Stowers, Loretta Welch, Mary Sweeney, Marjorie Shaw and Alice Porter.

ACADEMY RESERVES MEET DEFEAT AT GOV. DUMMER

Hoague of Gov. Dummer scored three touchdowns to defeat the Phillips academy Reserves at South Byfield Saturday, 19-0. A touchdown was made in each of the last three periods. Donnelly scoring the extra point after the first score.

MANAGERS of all ANDOVER TEAMS

Are asked to keep The Townsman informed about COMING GAMES

Punchard 1935 Captain to Play Against P. A.

What is reported to be the strongest team in the five years of football at Northeastern fresh comes here tomorrow to play the Phillips academy team in the third game of the season for both teams. Last year's Punchard captain, William D. Pomeroy, is listed on the squad as a tackle, and it is expected that he will see some action during the game.

Neither team has been scored on to date, Andover having downed New Hampshire fresh 20 to 0 and Yale fresh 12 to 0, while the Boston team has beaten Marianapolis 27 to 0 and Rhode Island State Freshmen 13 to 0.

Bob Gurney at left half is the outstanding star of the visiting team. He played quarterback at Medford high where he also was a star basketball player. Harding at right half was captain and president of his class at North Quincy, while Yetten, who comes from St. Mary's of Waltham, was on the All-Catholic team. Baum was a regular at Malden and DiNapoli at Newton.

The probable starting line-up for the visitors:

The Northeastern squad:

79, A. Anderson; 82 H. Anderson, 66 Baum, 79 Beaton, 67 DeNapoli, 68 Harding, 19 Hastings, 72 Hatch, 24 Howlett, 83 Johnson, 76 Labowicz, Lovequist, 23 McPherson, 6 Nicetakis, 63 Oginski, 11 Palmer, 81 Pomeroy, 64 Seaver, 77 Sinski, 85 Spence, 65 Struzziero, 78 C. Sullivan, 38 F. Sullivan, 62 Swardlick, 70 Yetten, 17 Griffin, 52 Gurney.

Sports Comment

P. A. PROGRESS—

We're keeping our fingers crossed, but it really does seem as if the Phillips academy football team is not going to commit the kind of suicide that it did last year. All during the 1935 season spectators groaned as they saw the academy backs punt close to the scrimmage line every single time a punt was necessary. To the quick-kick scheme undoubtedly goes the blame for that Exeter defeat a year ago, for it was a blocked punt that led to the Exonian touchdown, and another blocked punt later gave the Andover supporters more cause to groan. Why a quick-kick should be used on every single punting play was more than anyone could see; it certainly invited disaster. But this year in the first game we saw the backs drop back a respectable distance on the punt plays, and last Saturday the fact was corroborated: the Phillips academy team really is not going to hand, or rather kick, the game to the opponents. Lacking the individual stars of a year ago, the team does seem to have the coordination that is so important in any sport, and with any kind of a break there should be a bonfire on Andover Hill the night of November 14.

Punting and Passing Beat Yale Fresh

An unerring toe and an unerring arm gave Phillips academy a 12-0 victory over Yale fresh in football last Saturday. The toe belonged to a newcomer by the name of Huling, and the arm belonged to Lawrence's Johnnie Murphy.

Huling proved adept at punting with an English that made the ball stay put where it landed, and usually it landed within the Yale 10-yard stripe. Near the end of the second quarter he plunked one down on Yale's one-foot line. The Eli fresh managed to punt back to their own 33, but a few seconds later Johnnie Murphy's arm sent the ball straight to Huling on the ten-yard line and the punter went over for a touchdown.

Earlier in the period an old Andover boy, Chaney, helped his alma mater by fumbling a punt on his own 21-yard line, with Andover's Johnson recovering. After a few plays, Williams tossed a forward to Tine for a first on Yale's 7, and a minute later tossed to Huling, who waiting in the end zone, was interfered with, the penalty landing the ball on the one-yard line from which Seymour scored.

Not once during the game were the Freshmen over the 50-yard line, despite See's brilliant running. In fact Andover's defense was so strong that toward the end of the game it was almost an offense. Yale took the ball at the mid-field stripe, and in three plays the Andover defense had managed to make the Eli backs retreat 17 yards.

Thanks for the Tip

"Willie," said the Sunday-school teacher severely, "you shouldn't talk like that to your playmate. Have you ever thought of heaping coals of fire on his head?"

"No, I haven't," said Willie, "but it's a great idea."

Speaks on Bank Public Relations

Taking as his subject, "Bank Public Relations," Ray A. Ilg, Vice-President of The National Shawmut Bank was guest speaker at the dinner of the Merrimack Valley Clearing House Association, held Tuesday evening at the Phillips Inn.

Emphasizing the need of a capable Public Relations Department in the work of a modern banking institution, Mr. Ilg called attention to the change brought about by present-day business methods in the older conception of banking service. He outlined the major activities of a bank's Public Relations Department as: cultivation of present customers; gaining of new business; directing of advertising, and control of publicity. In connection with the first type of activity, the importance of which he stressed, Mr. Ilg pointed to the need for supplying an "over and above" service based on enthusiasm and loyal cooperation on the part of all officers and employees.

Regarding bank advertising, the speaker said, in part: "Not long ago there was very little bank advertising. Then institutions blossomed forth with an extremely conservative type of advertising, simply advertising their name, established date, and size. Today I believe progressive banks feel that it is their duty to show how their institutions think and how they act; in other words, to show their institutions in action."

Mr. Ilg warned his audience, however, against placing undue stress on the importance of banks, tending to create the impression that banks occupy a superior or dominant position in our economic structure. He suggested that a sounder approach is to consider banks as servants of business and the public, enjoying success in proportion to the service provided to their communities.

In furtherance of this idea, he offered suggestions, as follows: "Why not tell the public exactly what they want to know? Tell them about the bank's officers, so that they can put the confidence in these men which they apparently desire to do. Tell them how the bank can be helpful and useful to them. Every effort should be made to create an understanding which will tend to prevent the public either from expecting unreasonable functions from the banks or from wrecking the banking structure by mass withdrawals of deposits in every great economic crisis."

"Tell them that the last place in the world to look for real wealth is in a bank. A commercial bank is principally a monetary mechanism and a guarantor of credit. The only true wealth they will find in a bank is the relatively small amount of metal found in the coins in the bank's vaults, plus the bank's real estate, building, furniture and fixtures."

"A bank is no more a reservoir of wealth than an adding machine. The true wealth of the country consists of its grain, livestock, iron, copper, manufactured products and other property. You will not find these in a bank."

In conclusion, Mr. Ilg expressed his conviction that new thought and methods, however valuable, "will not bring about the desired result of greater service to the community and greater growth to your institution, unless behind it all, you have the deep and sincere philosophy that you so desire to serve, and that you do believe in your institution."

At present the W.P.A. is installing a water line on Sunset Rock road, a sewer and water line on William street, and a farm to market job on Red Spring road.

"Prairie House" Architect to Speak

Frank Lloyd Wright, who will lecture in George Washington Hall, Phillips Academy, on Friday, October 23rd, at 8:15, is probably the most widely known architect in the world today. The subject of Mr. Wright's lecture will be "The Growth and Development of American Architecture." His reputation was established over thirty years ago with the low hung "Prairie Houses" in Oak Park, Illinois, which revolutionized domestic architecture in the middle west. These houses retain today a decidedly modern quality, and had a great influence in the development of the so-called "International Style" of post-war Europe. Wright is even better known abroad than in the United States. His Imperial Hotel in Tokio, Japan, was the only building in its district to survive the earthquake in 1923, and the principle of construction which it embodies has become the accepted practice in regions where earthquakes are prevalent.

If there is any living American entitled to be considered a genius it is Frank Lloyd Wright. Possessed of imagination and power of invention in design on one hand, and great knowledge and understanding of engineering on the other, he has brought to architecture a rare quality of originality and daring which has been conspicuously lacking in the profession in the United States. Frankly an idealist with progressive leanings, he is one of the most outspoken critics of traditional systems of building in the world today. His frankness has also brought him many enemies and many disappointments, but in recent years Wright has become recognized in many quarters as the prophet of a new architecture. He is a speaker of great power, who presents his case with clarity and force, combined with a fine sense of humor.

The public is cordially invited. There will be an admission charge of 25c.

TOWN OF ANDOVER

Office of the

BOARD OF SELECTMEN

Andover, Mass.

You are hereby required on or before December 1, 1936 to destroy the gypsy and brown tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 132, General Laws, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same, and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land. (Section 18, Chapter 132, General Laws, on reverse.)

The Selectmen ask owners and tenants to co-operate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens who have cleaned their premises of the moths, but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moth should be destroyed at once with creosote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on trees, but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. Trees in which cavities occur and which it is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important. The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well-cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown tail moth should be cut from the trees, carefully collected and burned in a stove or furnace.

Full instructions as to the best methods of work against the moths may be obtained from the Local Superintendent, James Buss, or from the State Forester, Room 519, State House, Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractors should be inspected and approved by Local Superintendent before payment for the same is made.

Rights, against concentration of power, in favor of fewer office-holders and for economy in government, but the platform of 1932, he declared, is not even a forty-second cousin to the present administration's plans. Roosevelt promised to reduce expenditures 25 percent; instead he increased them 125 percent. He is part socialist, the speaker said of the President; he has done more to promote the cause of socialism than 50 men like Alfred Baker Lewis.

Robert St. John, publicity manager for the New Hampshire state democratic party, stated that Mr. Gordon was disappointed because in the realignment which saw Al Smith, Joe Ely, et al, go over to the Republicans and Senator Norris to the Democrats, the Republicans got the worst of the deal. Speaking on relief, he asked whether it was better to spend a dollar for a dole as Hoover did or $1.50 for work relief by which the country gets something for the money and purchasing power is restored. It is an undeniable fact, he asserted that we have recovery today right down to the basic industries.

There have been 109,000 new public buildings, 400,000 miles of new roads. Possibly they would have cost less if built by contract, he said, but even if there were no permanent improvements, the expenditure would have done some good by keeping men at work in their own jobs.

The President has masterly finesse in foreign affairs, Mr. St. John said. With very important developments coming across the water, do we want a man who has dealt only with Kansas farmers for this job, he asked.

Going on to the public debt, he said that the debt had increased seven billion but that the national income has increased 22 billion. The reciprocal trade agreements stimulated trade, he declared.

AGAINST REACTION

Richard Blake, the Communist speaker, said that his party had no illusions about being elected, but it is entering the campaign primarily interested in organizing the forces of progress to defeat the forces of reaction. Roosevelt, he said, is in the middle of the road, trying to reconcile two irreconcilable sides. His concessions to the farmer and to the laborer are meaningless as compared to his concessions to business. Mr. Blake urged action against the supreme court rather than just the making of innocuous comments. Landon and Knox, he said, must be defeated at all costs, for William Randolph Heart and the Liberty League are in back of them. The Republicans, he said, would abolish relief, terminate the W.P.A. and wipe out all concessions to labor. Landon is no Hitler, but his sponsors would Hitlerize America, the speaker asserted. He then went on to link the Union party and the Republican party, saying that it was the former's purpose to defeat Roosevelt and elect Landon.

He said there was not an ounce of socialism in the New Deal, and at worst Roosevelt tries to smooth out the failures of Capitalism.

Richard Crosscup said that the Farmer-Labor party was now in the embryonic stages, but that it would include Mr. Blake, Mr. Lewis and the left-hand side of Mr. St. John. Mr. Roosevelt is a smart, decisive man, he declared, but not smart enough to untie the knot tied by manufacturers. The only way to untie that knot if for the people to rise from their trade-unions. He then ran through the platform of the party, saying that he favored the Frazier-Lundine bill which is much broader than the present social security bill. He was also opposed to crop curtailment and teachers' oaths. He would also wrest from the Supreme court its "Usurped" powers.

TWO WHISTS TONIGHT

The Mothers club will hold a monster whist at the old Odd Fellows hall in the Musgrove building this evening. The proceeds will be used for the annual Thanksgiving baskets.

The British War Veterans will also hold a whist party tonight in the Square and Compass hall.
